Storyteller has kids spellbound

This Tuesday the children of Currige Primary School were treated to the tales of travelling storyteller, Michael O'Leary.

Sitting before him on his special mat, the children were greeted by Michael's flute playing as he sat upon his story box full of musical instruments. Bursting into life he delighted the children with his lively stories. The ex-Infant and Junior school teacher who is based in Southampton believes his performance should involve the children creatively through discussion and communication, building a rapport as he goes along.

Currige County Primary School caters for Juniors and Infants aged 5 - 11 years old and currently has 95 pupils. The schools headmaster is Mr Stephenson.
